

Bachelor of Laws, LL.B. (Hons)*

— MAURITIUS —

The Sorbonne-Assas International Law School was set up by Paris II Panthéon-Assas University to run its international programmes at its campuses in Dubai, Paris, Singapore and Mauritius.

The three-year LL.B. Honours Programme is designed to meet the requirements of students who intend to pursue postgraduate studies or a career, in either civil law or common law jurisdictions, or in Private/Public international law practice. After the first year, students may choose between Optional Streams focusing either on domestic law or modules with a more global outreach – ‘the global stream’ may be of interest to either local or international students.

The objectives of our LL.B. Programme are: equip students with all necessary skills required to pursue postgraduate courses in law or other related fields; train students for a career in the public or private sector at national or international levels; enable students to follow Vocational Courses for law practitioners.

International Expertise

75% of the Faculty are professors from the Paris campus
25% are Mauritian law practitioners

Taught in English

All lectures and tutorials are conducted in English

Adaptability

Optional streams will provide local and international students with an opportunity to adapt to the needs of different legal systems and/or career paths

Career Opportunities

The comprehensive course programme enables graduates to follow vocational courses for prospective law practitioners or academic studies for other legal careers

Jyotiswaree Bissonauth, Alumni, Compliance Assistant

"The unique nature of the LL.B. (Hons) which includes civil law, common law, Mauritian law along with international and comparative law has been immensely beneficial and opened up a lot of possibilities for me. The quality of the classes and professors of Paris II Panthéon-Assas University who are mostly international, have provided me with insightful knowledge and trained me to be a versatile professional. Today, as I use methods and approaches to tackle data protection and privacy policies in line with my organisation's strategy, I know the law programme I have chosen to follow has been instrumental in getting me in this seat within the legal department."
