WHY STUDY IN MAURITIUS?

"The LL.M. in International Business Law aims to give advanced practitioners and students the ability to deepen the main tools of the practice of law in a resolutely international context. Whether it is taking into account the constraints on the drafting of international contracts, the normative framework of competition regulation, the control of tax factors, or the understanding of dispute resolution mechanisms through arbitration, for example, students will be confronted with current challenges in the practice of international business law. In this respect, Mauritius is now a financial hub at the junction between Asia, Europe and Africa, offering investors modern corporate, financial, tax and investment protection tools tailored to their needs. Mauritius is of particular importance to France. France is indeed a major economic player in Mauritius. It is Mauritius' third largest trading partner, second largest customer, fourth largest supplier and largest foreign investor, not to mention the largest tourist provider. These ever-increasing trade and investment relations contribute to making the legal training provided by Paris-Panthéon-Assas University even more attractive in Mauritius. The same is also true for French Bar students trained in France. The legal environment, which is bilingual and at the crossroads of the civil law and common law tradition, also provides a favorable environment for the completion of legal training in international business law."

Rukhsaar BUDULLA (LL.M.'2019)

"Getting insight from highly qualified professionals on both the international aspect and the local aspect surrounding all the modules has enabled me to gracefully switch from a career as a Legal claim handler in the offshore sector to a career in the Banking Sector. For me, the recognition that is attached to this university was primordial as well as the quality of the various topics in the curriculum. As a plus point, I got to avoid writing a lengthy dissertation which would not have been easy with my job. My advice to anyone who is thinking of enrolling into the course is to go for it. It's definitely one of the best in Mauritius currently and would be a great stepping stone in their career."

Robin APPAYA (LL.M.'2016)

"[The modules] have enabled me to acquire expertise in subject matter thereof including advising on international contracts. I have also gained immense expertise in structuring Public Private Partnership (PPP) initiatives under different models. (...) This programme is for those who want to succeed in their profession by making use of the important tools and knowledge which you would acquire throughout the programme. Passing the exams is one thing but succeeding in your profession is another thing. Now that you are in it, engage with your teaching staffs who have immense knowledge and experience for you to partake. Don't lose these opportunities."

Genevieve TALBOT (LL.M.'2019)

"I did the LL.M. at a time in my professional career when I needed to be challenged intellectually and to broaden my career prospects. The LL.M. was a perfect match. The wealth of knowledge and experience of the Pantheon Assas Professors, coupled with the sharing of the practical application by our own local handpicked experts was invaluable in making the legal concepts come to life. Since I have completed the course, I am in a better position to understand the interconnectedness of international business law and to negotiate terms of business with my colleagues and clients across the world."
